

Accounting for Road Transport & Logistics

PFG ACCOUNTANTS & ADVISORS FORWARD THINKING BUSINESS GROWTH EXPERTS

“Success in road transport can be a long haul but having an accountant who understands the mechanics of the road freight and logistics industry can give you a serious competitive edge. Over the years we have helped dozens of road freight operators through the various stages of their business life cycle, from start up right through to sale.”

Manel Darwiche - Principal

Road transport dominates the movement of freight around the country and it is a critical link in the increasingly complex chain that moves freight from ports and terminals and distributes it to warehouses and retail outlets. Success in road transport can seem to be a 'long haul' with information technology and customer demands driving a more integrated approach to logistics management with widespread use of real-time freight tracking through electronic monitoring and messaging systems installed in transport vehicles. Having an accountant who understands the mechanics of the road freight and logistics industry can give you a serious competitive edge.

The road freight industry has become more complex in recent years with the introduction of some sophisticated technology in trucks, loading systems and office systems and while the capital investment of a road freight business is probably at its highest levels, finance remains tight. It's a competitive industry and it's a fine line between success and failure which is why road freight operators must measure and monitor their costs. It doesn't matter if you're an interstate driver, long haulage contractor, courier or taxi truck operator, you have to deal with industry issues like road congestion, fuel excise, rising vehicle maintenance costs and fluctuating fuel prices. It's not easy!

STARTING A ROAD TRANSPORT BUSINESS

If you're thinking of starting your own business in road transport or logistics there are numerous issues to consider. As business start-up specialists we can help you with everything from your branding to your business structure, insurances, accounting software selection, vehicle finance, business plan and cash flow budget. One of our biggest points of difference compared to other accounting firms is our marketing expertise and we believe that your marketing could be the difference between gloom and boom for most small business owners. We can assist you with your website design and construction, branding and even help you with the production of your videos and social media campaigns. You'll find PFG Accountants & Advisors are not your average firm of accountants who just 'keep the score' and we are here to help you accelerate your business and financial success.
